 - Riding season reminders:
 - Intersection—don't trust the cars around you—trust the little voice; look at the wheels make sure they are stopped; make eye contact if possible
 - No matter the number of miles; relearn everything—practice, practice, practice
 - Country roads are not always level—check the ground but don't stare at it... do what you have to, in order to keep the bike up;
 - Rain: be aware of how slippery the roads are at the beginning of the rainy season. You will lose some traction when the roads are wet about 30%. Use common sense.
 - Use correct judgement: when turning at slow speeds small amount of pressure to rear break will help; don't lock it up
 - Before you ride: check pant legs or chaps to make sure they won't get tangled up
 - They will lean: no matter how big!
 - Wind: buffering the bike more than used to; the weight of the bike will keep it on the road; may have to increase speed in a crosswind; get off the interstate if too windy
